Reported by Amanda Kelper, Media Correspondent, London

Last week, British astronaut Tim Peake returned home from an incredible six month stay aboard the International Space Station (ISS), alongside his crewmates Yuri Malenchenko and Timothy Kopra. He is the first British astronaut to have lived on the ISS.

The men were launched into space on 15th December 2015. The mission involved conducting experiments, testing out new technology and inspiring the next generation of space travellers. Peake told reporters that the best part of his mission was a spacewalk where he had to make a repair on the space station.

ROMAN COIN SURPRISE FOR MRS SHIP

Reported by Owen Butler, Media Correspondent, Southampton

It was last year when Betty Ship, an art teacher from Somerset, decided to have an extension built on her home. 'We'd outgrown our house but couldn't find another one so nice,' she explained. 'Instead of moving, we decided to extend.' The builders began work in March 2014 and a few days later, Betty made the find of her life. 'I remember watching the builders dig up my lawn. As I was going out their cups of coffee, I noticed something in the hole they were digging. I had a feeling it was something special.'

Further excavations took place at Mrs Ship's property but no other finds were made. It is set to be decided where the coins will be put on display for the public.

It gets you thinking about why they were there, and they had been dropped by accident? What had they bought?'

Sally explained that since her fantastic find, she has joined a local metal detectors group. 'It's great fun! After all, you never know what you're going to find!'

'Betty asked me to stop working because I was about to hit whatever she'd seen. I hadn't even spotted them,' commented
