

What is a formal business report?

- A formal report is a written account of a major project – something you did, discovered, or organized.
- The audience may be managers, co-workers, or someone from outside your organization.
- Formality, accuracy, and ethical standards should be maintained because reports can be used in court cases and other situations.

