

In real estate, location is everything.

That also includes your marketing strategy. Whether it's setting up signs at busy intersections or creating meaningful interactions over social media, where you market is just as important as what you market.

