

ESSAY

My sources have given me a pretty good picture of history, but a confusing picture of her life as a whole. Every single source has contradicted another source in some way.

For example, some sources have given me different dates, numbers and even events. One says ~~Deborah~~ Deborah was sent away from her mother because of financial problems and ~~was~~ says because Mrs Sampson was ill. My rule was that majority ruled.

Other than that, I see her life clearly because I guess those are just minor details that I can't help. My sources have shown me the important things, like what she did and why, and guided me through her whole life.

This whole project has helped me understand history in ways that I didn't before. Looking up general things like the Revolutionary war and colonial life helped me understand basic things that I hadn't completely gotten by only looking at books about Deborah Sampson.

Overall I understand a lot about her individual life and what that era was like.
