POLICE VEHICLE RULES

Police appearance vehicles have VERY strict laws and regulations in place. Failure to follow the rules below, MAY RESULT IN YOUR ARREST and/or MAJOR FINES!! Renting and driving one of these vehicles is an enormous responsibility not to be taken lightly. You are not only liable as the producer signing this agreement, but are required to notify all cast & crew members who will use the vehicle of these rules, for their own safety. An actor or crew member who you place in this vehicle and who is not notified of the rules, will still be in jeopardy of arrest or fines for breaking them!! If you or your crew are uncomfortable transporting the vehicle to and from set, please make arrangements to have it towed on a flat-bed truck.

1. Lightbar Cover, "Out of Service" Signs, and Prop License Plates

When not on a closed film set, the black lightbar cover must fully cover the roof lightbar so that no red or blue lights are visible, the magnetic "Out of Service" signs MUST be attached on 3 sides of vehicle, and the official DMV license plates must be on the vehicle at all times. This includes while parked on public streets or parking lots. The magnetic signs must cover the police logo on driver and passenger side doors, and on the rear of the trunk.

2. Police Lights and Siren May Not Be Used At Any Time Unless On Private Property or Closed Film Set

The display of red or blue lights, or turning on the siren on any public road (even while parked) may constitute impersonating a police officer. This is not a toy to "prank" someone, even if you think it's just for 10 seconds. Turning them on even for a second while not on a closed film set could be considered a felony.

3. Possibility of Being Confused for Real Police Officer

It is possible that, even while following the rules above, you may be approached by a citizen requesting help in an emergency. They may not see or understand the "Out of Service" sign. At no time may the occupants of the vehicle present themselves as a law enforcement officer or first responder. You must immediately inform them that this is a film production prop car, that you are not a police officer or employee of a police department, and that they must call 911 for assistance.

4. Professionalism While Using Vehicle

It is important to remember that while driving this vehicle, even with "Out of Service" signs present, you will still appear to be representing a police department to many people. Please act and dress professionally while operating the vehicle. Failure to do so will certainly attract unwanted attention, not to mention portray law enforcement officers and the police department marked on the vehicle in a bad light.

5. If Pulled Over Or Approached By Police Officer

If you are approached by, or pulled over by a police officer, immediately inform them that this is a prop vehicle used for film production, and show them your rental agreement and film production documents or permit. Remember to be professional, courteous, and provide all necessary information to them to show this is a legitimate production vehicle and usage of that vehicle.
