

Project Proposal Training Write-Shop

One way to sustain financially an organization and to keep up with its activities and projects is to seek support from funding agencies. But in so doing, an organization needs to submit considerable project proposals attuned to the funding agency's arrangements and thrusts. The lack of technical knowledge and capability in preparing/writing fundable project proposals, most often is one of the reasons for the rejection or disapproval of such by funding agencies. Project proposal writing requires/involves substantial skills so as to minimize the rejection of programs and projects.

Training objectives

Upon completion of the training

- you will become competent and confident in writing project proposals
- your knowledge and competency in designing/writing project proposals will be enhanced
