

■ SELF-CARE VISION BOARD

Self-care activities are those things we do to take care of our mental, emotional, and physical health. This exercise aims to increase self-care and self-compassion in a creative way. It involves a playful and intuitive search for potential self-care activities that, when completed, can serve as a visual reminder and motivator.

Some practical advice for clients includes:

- Use pen and paper to make drawings; Use scissors to cut pictures and texts from hardcopy magazines and glue them together on a piece of paper; Use apps, like Bloom (<http://appcrawlr.com/ios/bloom-2>) or Corkulous Pro (<http://appcrawlr.com/ios/corkulous-pro>); Use Powerpoint or Keynote to build a presentation with images, photos, and text.
- Exposure to the vision board can serve as a prime or reminder. Therefore, suggest to your client to place the vision board in a visible spot (e.g., on the refrigerator or office desk). Note that some clients may consider their board a private source of inspiration. If this is the case, they should think of a place that limits who can view their work. The point is that your client's vision board should be accessible to him/her, and should not be placed where he/ she will fall out of the habit of looking at it.
- When creating the vision board, it is important to enjoy the process and work intuitively. Rather than creating the vision board in a rational mode (a lot of thinking and internally debating), it often works best to just go with the flow: select images or texts that feel good or appropriate, without overthinking it. Prioritizing can always be done afterward.
- After clients have created their vision boards, ask them if they would like to discuss the vision board together in a session. Allowing clients to share their vision boards with the practitioner can not only enhance the therapeutic alliance but can also create a fruitful starting point for behavioral change. Questions that can be discussed during this reflection include: Can you explain to me what we are looking at? How was it to create this board? What did you experience while making it? What did you learn from this exercise? What kind of goals can be formulated based on your vision board? Which self-care activity would you like to initiate first?
- Although this exercise may be done at the very beginning of an intervention, it may also be valuable to do it at the end of an intervention because self-care continues to enhance wellbeing once the intervention is over. In this way, the vision board can serve as a reminder for staying on course or as a buffer against relapse.

▶ STEP 1 INTRODUCING THE EXERCISE

This exercise involves creating a self-care vision board. A vision board is a visual representation of a particular concept using images, illustrations and/or words. Thus, a self-care vision board is a collection of images and words that reflect ideas for self-care. Self-care activities are those things we do to take care of our mental, emotional, and physical health. Follow the following three steps to create your self-care vision board.

▶ STEP 2 BRAINSTORM SELF-CARE ACTIVITIES

Come up with a list of as many potential self-care activities as possible. Be bold and creative, allowing yourself to consider new and different potential activities. Only include activities that you would genuinely enjoy doing and that fit with your lifestyle and your values. Refer to the appendix for inspiration.

▶ STEP 3 COLLECT IMAGES FOR YOUR VISION BOARD

Find positive images that correspond with your chosen self-care activities. Look for images that resonate with you, and inspire you. You might like to use the internet, magazines, and photographs as potential sources. Use photos of activities that you can do to take better care of yourself and your needs.

▶ STEP 4 COLLECT WORDS FOR YOUR VISION BOARD

You can decide to keep your vision board completely visual or to add words and phrases to it. The words and phrases you choose should reflect or relate to your chosen self-care activities. You might like to cut words out of magazines or print them from the internet. Choose words and fonts that resonate with you and inspire you.

▶ STEP 5 PUT YOUR VISION BOARD TOGETHER

Once you have gathered your images and inspiring phrases, get creative with your arrangement.
