

Modern Language Association (MLA) Style, 8th edition

The MLA citation style is most commonly used in the liberal arts and humanities fields. The 8th edition of the Modern Language Association Style Guide was published in the summer of 2016.

Information taken from the Purdue Owl and MLA.org

---

Manuscript Formatting

Margins

There should be 1 inch of margins on all four sides of the page.

Headers

Headers should contain your last name followed by the page number flushed to the right side of the page, in the top right-hand corner.

Text Formatting

MLA formatting suggests that you use an easy-to-read font, preferably Times New Roman, that contrasts when italicized. The entire paper should be double-spaced.

First Page

Before you begin your paper, you should include

- your name
- your professor's name
- your course name
- the date

all on double-spaced, separate lines.

On a new line after these, you should include a title for your essay that is centered in the middle of the page. Follow your professor's formatting instructions if they require a title page.

Subheadings

You may use subheadings to separate and organize ideas in your paper. In MLA format, you may use whatever formatting you like, as long as it is consistent throughout your paper.

---

Works Cited Page

Basic Guidelines:

The Works Cited page is placed at the end of the essay on a separate page, after any endnotes.

- Heading for this page is: "Works Cited"

- Double-spaced
- Each reference should have a running indent. First line is left-flushed but all following lines have ½" indent.
- All references should be in alphabetical order.
- Begin references with the name of the author in format Last Name, First Name.
- Page numbers should be preceded by "pp." in citations.
- The medium is no longer necessary at the end of a citation unless needed for clarity.
- Abbreviations should now be spelled out, including the volume and numbers for scholarly journals.

Book with one author

Author's last name, first name. Title of Book. City of publication: Publisher, Year of Publication.

**Note that with the new 8th edition, the city of publication is not given except in special situations.*

Sample:

Bergesen, Albert. The Depth of Shallow Culture: The High Art of Shoes, Movies, Novels, Monsters, and Toys. Boulder, CO: Paradigm Publishers, 2006.

Book with more than one author

The first author's name appears in the last name, first name format while the following authors' name appears in the first name, last name format.

Sample:

Gillespie, Paula, and Neal Lerner. The Allyn and Bacon Guide to Peer Tutoring. Boston: Allyn, 2000.

If there are more than two authors, you may list the first author followed by "et al."

Sample:

Corbin, Juliet, et al. Basics of Qualitative Research. Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage, 2012.

Note that you must list the names as they appear on the text.

Two or more sources from the same author

You may list the first book normally. The second source will replace the author name with three hyphens and a period.

Last, First. Title of Book. City, State: Publisher, Date.

---. Title of Book. City, State: Publisher, Date.

Sample:

King, Stephen. Pet Sematary. Garden City, NY: Doubleday, 1983.
---. Cujo. New York: Viking Press, 1981.

Book with no author

If the book does not provide an author, you may omit the author's name and begin the citation with the title, completing the citations normally from there.

Title of Book. City, State: Publisher, Date.

Sample:

Maze. Maryville, MO: Northwest Missouri State University, 2012.

An edition of a book

There are different edition citation formats that should be used for the different types of editions. One type is a book that has been published more than once in different editions. The other is a book that is prepared by someone other than the author.

For a subsequent edition to the original, you may cite normally, adding the edition after the title.

Last, First. Title of Book. edition. City, State: Publisher, Date.

Sample:

Crowley, Sharon, and Debra Hawhee. Ancient Rhetorics for Contemporary Students. 3rd edition.
New York: Pearson/Longman, 2004.

For an edition prepared by someone other than the author, cite as you normally would, adding the name of the preparer or editor after the title.

Last, First. Title of Book. Ed. First Last. City, State: Publisher, Date.

Sample:

Bronte, Charlotte. Jane Eyre. Editor Margaret Smith. Oxford: Oxford UP, 1998.

A work in an anthology, reference, or collection

If you are trying to cite an edited collection, anthology, or chapter of a book, you may follow this format.

Last Name, First Name. "Title of Article/Essay". Title of Collection. Editors Editor's Name(s). City of Publication: Publisher, Year. Page range.

Sample:

Harris, Muriel. "Talk to Me: Engaging Reluctant Writers." A Tutor's Guide: Helping Writers One to One. Editor Ben Rafoth. Portsmouth: Heinemann, 2000. pp. 24-34.

If you are citing several sections from a collection, consider citing the entire collection, beginning with the editor's name.

Last Name, First Name, and First Name Last Name, eds. Name of the Collection. City: Publisher, Year.

Sample:

Hill, Charles A., and Marguerite Helmers, editors. Defining Visual Rhetorics. Mahwah: Lawrence Erlbaum Associates, 2004.

Scholarly Journal

Author(s). "Title of Article". Title of Journal Volume, Number (Month Year): pages. Medium of Publication.

Sample:

Bagchi, Alaknanda. "Conflicting Nationalisms: The Voice of the Subaltern in Mahasweta Devi's Bashai Tudu." Tulsa Studies in Women's Literature vol. 15, no. 1 (1996): pp. 41-50.

**Note that the month or season presented before the year of publication is required as long as it appears on the text. If it does not appear, it is not required, as the 8th edition states. The new 8th edition also requires that volume and numbers be spelled out. Instead of "15.1", you would write it out as "vol. 15, no. 1".*

Magazine or Newspaper

Author(s). "Title of article." Title of Periodical Day Month Year: pages.

Sample:

Poniewozik, James. "TV Makes a Too-Close Call." Time 20 Nov. 2000: pp. 70-71.

**Note that there is no period placed after the periodical name.*

Websites

The 8th edition of MLA formatting suggests including the URL of the websites, without including http:// or https://. Do not use angle brackets.

The date of visitation for the website is now optional, according to the 8th edition.

Last Name, First Name. "Title of Article." Website Name. Publisher, publishing date.

Sample:

"Athlete's Foot - Topic Overview." WebMD. WebMD, 25 September 2014.

**Note that citing the date the source was reviewed is no longer necessary, as stated by the MLA 8th edition.*

An Interview

There are several different types of interviews that you might use as a source.

One is a personal interview, which is an interview that you conduct yourself. In this citation, you would include the name of the interviewee, the descriptor of the personal interview, and a date.

Last, First. Personal Interview. Day Month Year.

Sample:

Pueo, Jane. Personal interview. 19 May 2014.

If you are citing a published interview, you should include list the interview beginning with the name of the interviewee. Place the name of the interview in quotation marks if the work is part of a larger project like a television program, radio program, or other collection, with the larger work following italicized. Include the medium of publication as well as any authors or editors that contributed if you are using a book.

Single Published Interview

Author Last, First. Interview with First Last. Name of Larger Work Volume, Edition (Year): Pages.
Medium.

Sample:

Amis, Kingsley. "Mimic and Moralists." Interviews with Britain's Angry Young Men. By Dale Salwak.
San Bernardino: Borgo, 1984.

Series Published Interview

Interviewee Last, First. "Title of Interview". Title of Larger Work. By First Last. City, State:
Publisher, Year. Medium.

Sample:

Gaitskill, Mary. Interview with Charles Bock. Mississippi Review vol. 27, no. 3 (1999): pp. 129-50.

Speeches, Lectures, or Presentations

With these sources, you may list the source beginning with the name of the speaker, followed by the name of the speech in quotation marks. Then include the name of the organization, place, date, and type of presentation.

Last, First. "Name of Speech". Name of Organization. Place, City, State. Day Month Year. Type of Presentation.

Sample:

Stein, Bob. "Computers and Writing Conference Presentation." Purdue University. Union Club Hotel, West Lafayette, IN. 23 May 2003. Keynote Address.

Published Conference Proceedings

You may cite these resources like a book. Include the place and date of the presentation alongside the title. Use the abbreviation n.p. if the publisher is not known. If the date is not known, use n.d.

Title including location

Last Name, First Name, editor. Presentation Title including Place and Time. City: Publisher, Date of Publication. Medium.

Sample:

Mann, Jill. "Chaucer and the 'Woman Question.'" This Noble Craft: Proceedings of the Tenth Research Symposium of the Dutch and Belgian University Teachers of Old and Middle English and Historical Linguistics, Utrecht, 19-20 January 1989. Editor Erik Kooper. Amsterdam: Rodopi, 1991. pp. 173-88.

Title not including location

Last Name, First Name, editor. Presentation Title not including Place and Time. Date, Location. City: Publisher, Date. Medium.

Sample:

Balakian, Anna, and James J. Wilhelm, editors. Proceedings of the Xth Congress of the International Comparative Literature Association. New York: Garland, 1985.

Film or Movie

You may list films by their title. You can include the name of the director, the film distributor, and the date. Use the name of the actors or performers if it is appropriate.

Name of Film. Director First Name Last Name. Performer First Name Last Name. Studio, Year.

Sample:

Life of Pi. Yann Martel. Harcourt, 2001.

**Note that the new 8th edition MLA format suggests dropping "Inc" and "Corp." when citing publishers or producers.*

Painting, Sculpture, or Photograph

Include the name of the artist, the name of the work, the date, the medium of piece, and the place.

Last Name, First Name. Title of Piece. Day Month Year. City, State, Country.

Sample:

Van Gogh, Vincent. The Starry Night. 1889. Italy.

Television or Radio Program

You may begin the citation with the name of the show, followed by the name of the series in italics. Also include the name of the network, the call letters to the station, the place, date, and medium.

"Name of Show." Name of Series. NetworkName. CallNumbers. City, State, Country. Day Month Year.

Sample:

"Love of My Life." That 70's Show. FOX. 821. Los Angeles, California. 18 May 2006.

Sound Recordings

You can list a sound recording with the artist's, composer's, or performer's name. You might also list their names after the title of the album. You should place song titles in quotation marks and album names in italics. The date of publishing should follow the name of the recording manufacturer.

The medium of the recording will be last. For example, you might be using a CD or audio cassette, If the medium of the song is an MP3 recording, use the guidelines below in "digital files" to cite.

Artist. "Name of Song." Name of Album. Recording Manufacturer, Year. Medium.

Sample:

Sia. "Chandelier." 1000 Forms of Fear. RCA, 2013.

---

In-Text Citation and Quotation

Guidelines for in-text citations:

- Information needed in parentheses in-text will depend on what type of source you are citing.
- Your in-text information that is provided in the parenthesis will correspond with the list of works cited that you provide. You should include whatever information you use to begin your citations. In other words, you would be using the signal word that your citation begins with. Usually, this would be the author's name.

Author-Page Style

This is the most common style of in-text citation. In this style, you place the author's name and the page number where the information came from in parenthesis. If you have already provided the author's name in the sentence you are citing, you may leave their name out of the in-text citation and simply include the page number.

This is my sentence (No'eau 29).

No'eau says this is my sentence (29).

No'eau says "this is my sentence with a quotation" (29).

By Corporate Author

When you are citing a source by a corporate author, you may cite using the name of the corporation. Use abbreviations where necessary.

This is my sentence (Corporation Name 29).

Missing Author

If no author is provided in your source, you may cite beginning with the article name, so this is the signal word that you would include in your in-text citation. If it is a short work, like an essay, article, or chapter, use quotation marks. If it is a longer work, like a book, play, or movie, use italics. Provide a page number if possible.

This is my sentence ("Article Name" 17).

This is my sentence (Book Title 28).

Works with Multiple Editions

When you are citing a source that may have multiple editions, you can include a page number, followed by a semicolon, followed by the number for the volume, chapter, edition, and so on.

This is my sentence (35; vol. 3).

This is my sentence (56; ch. 6).

Citing Authors with the Same Last Name.

If you have two sources that have the same last name, you can use the first name initial of each author to distinguish them in-text.

This is my sentence (A. No'eau 34).

This is my sentence (B. No'eau 47).

Multiple Authors

If a source has two or three authors, you can simply list their names.

This is my sentence (Author A, Author B, and Author C 34).

If a source has more than three authors, you can follow the name of the first author with et al.

This is my sentence (Author A et al. 34).

Works by the same author

If you are citing multiple sources by the same author, you may include the name of the article or work in the in-text citation. If the title is too long, you may shorten it.

This is my sentence (No'eau, "Article Title" 34).

No'eau says this is my sentence ("Article Title" 34).

Citing Non-Print Sources

When citing non-print sources, like websites or online articles, you do not need to include a page number. You may simply include the signal word that you began your citation with.