

CONCLUSION

The days are long, and the years are short; just like that, the moment passes. Sometimes we forget the good times and focus on the harder times but take a moment to celebrate the lovely moments and good days with your child.

Congratulate yourself and your spouse; it is hard work; you are doing a great job and are getting better and better as you learn your way. As time passes, your child will become more playful and chattier, learning and enjoying new skills and abilities.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The Our Children Are Our Lives Parenting Resource Pack represents a collaborative effort made possible by the contributions and insights of several different individuals and organisations.

This package was initiated by UNICEF MENA Regional Office Education Team, under the leadership of Aferdita Spahiu, Education Specialist, in close coordination with Jeannette Vogelaar, Regional Education Advisor, Neha Kapil, Regional Advisor Communication for Development; Shoubo Jalal, Regional Advisor Gender; Tomomi Kitamura, Child Survival & Development Specialist; Simon Pickup, Corporate Alliance Specialist; Stephanie Shanler, Child Protection Specialist; Wigdan Madani, Nutrition Specialist; Maria Raquel Baez Da Costa, ECD consultant; Rania Alshanti, Communication for Development Consultant and Dickson Mharadze, International Fellow of UNICEF MENA Regional Office, conceived, guided, and reviewed the development of the package.

The publication benefits from research and best practices drawn from numerous sources. In particular Humanity & Inclusion, namely Maria Marelli, Regional Health & Rehabilitation Technical Specialist and Evelyne Huizinga, Early Childhood Development Field Technical Specialist for contributing to the sections on developmental delays and disabilities.

UNICEF MENA extends a special thank you to MAGENTA Consulting, especially Mary Ivancic and Thérèse Cregan for their efforts designing, drafting and visualising the content and developing the corresponding implementation guide.
