

We have been learning to write limericks in Year 5/6. We started by studying the rhymes and rhythm of other poets' limericks. Then, we had a go at writing our own.

We hope you will enjoy them!

There once was a young boy called Fred
Who could never get back to bed
He cried in the night
And screamed with a fright
As a monster said hi that was red!
By Athena

There once was a young boy called Dan
Who destroyed a Mc Donald's van.
Sent down for murder
For stabbing a burger.
Now working as the Pizza Hut man.

By Ben

*There once was a small boy called Ben
Who had a very fat hen
Put it in a cage
Made it eat some sage
In the morning he named it Gwen.*

By: Beth

There once was a girl called Millie
Who had a young brother called Billy
Billy was quite fat
Because he ate a cat
Overall that Billy is silly

By Caitlyn

There once was a girl called Jess
Whose hair was always a mess
She bought a new brush
She brushed in a rush
It looked perfect nevertheless!

By Ms. Rees

There once was a puppy called Fred
Who really liked his giant bed
He sat all day long
Whilst singing a song
About how much he loved his bed!

By Drew

There once was a boy called Harry
He had a good friend called Larry
Who hated the cold,
And was brave and bold
And who often called his mate Barry

By Harry

There once was a young girl called Milly
Her sandwiches were very silly
Her brother`s called Sam
He lost strawberry jam
So she filled it burger with hot chilli!

By Haziq

There once was a boy called Harry
Who quite liked a boy called Gary
He won the race
The smile on his face
After he beat his friend called Gary!
By Henry

There was a young boy called Matt
Who was scared of a baby black bat
He fell down a hole
Then he found a mole
And lastly he saw a fat rat.

By James

*There once were some hamsters two
I named them Finley and Drew
They both bit my arm,
And injured my palm
Until my whole hand turned blue.*

By: Jess

There was an old whale called Tin
That thought of a race he could win
He had a good go;
But he was too slow
So then he just had to give in.

By Jessie

There once was a young man called Fred
Who travelled the world in his bed
It took him too long
He arrived in Hong Kong
To find that his parents were dead!

By Lauren

There once was a bear called Claire
Who had beautiful silky hair
She soon got it cut
The scissors got stuck
No more lovely beautiful hair

By Martha

There once was a young boy called Matt
Who was scared of a skinny black bat
He chased it to France
It began to dance
Then the bat was eaten by a cat!

By Matt

*There once was an old man called Dan
He was a delivery man
One day he arrived
To just be deprived
Of the pay which would buy his new van!*

By Max

There once was a boy called Sonny
Who was afraid of a shiny bunny
One jumped on his head
While he was in bed
And he thought it was very funny

By Miley

There once was a boy called Ted,
Who wouldn't get out of bed,
He slept with a bear,
And swallowed a pear
Then found he was perfectly dead
By Olivia

There once was a grizzly bear,
Who loved eating all of our pears.
We shooed it outside
Until morning sunrise,
To find it had lost all its hair!
By Ruby

*There once was an old man called Sam
Who loved to drive his giant tram,
He dozed off to sleep
After eating his sheep
Then ran while eating lovely ham.
By Sam*

There was a young dog called Millie
Who was extremely silly
Bumped into a man
Climbing into a van
Which was delivering chilli.
By Jack

There was an old beetle called Rummy.
Who could be a bit of a dummy.
Of course it's a strain:
And sometimes a pain.
But also he could be so funny!

By Tommy

There was once was a lady called Clare
Who thought that she was a bear
She growled at a man
Who was in a van
And then took him straight to her lair

By William

*There once was a young girl from York
Who only ate meals with a fork
No matter how squishy
With every dishy
Until she discovered a spork!
By Edie*

There once was a young girl called Clare
Who happened to have bright pink hair
She really liked art
And also liked tart
And owned a big, hairy, pet bear!
By Hannah
