
Funny Resignation Letter

Dear [Manager's Name],

I've always heard that when you know, you know. And now, I know. It's not you, it's me. Okay, maybe it's a little bit you, but mostly it's this fantastic opportunity that's come my way, and I've decided to play the field career-wise. Just think of it as me taking a hiatus to explore other genres in the great series of "Life's Careers."

I'll cherish our coffee breaks, those never-ending meetings (sarcasm intended), and of course, the memories of battling the office printer together. You've been more fun than my Netflix subscription, and that's saying something.

I promise to visit when I can and regale you with tales from the "other side." But for now, consider this my two weeks' notice.

Forever your office pal (and the champ of office pranks),

[Your Name]
