

Go down in flames

Idiom in Sentence

Examples

- The startup went down in flames after the investors pulled out their funding.
- His political career went down in flames following the scandal.
- Despite their hard work, the team's project went down in flames due to poor management.
- Their marriage went down in flames after years of unresolved issues.
- The film was so bad that it went down in flames at the box office.
- His attempt to break the world record went down in flames after a serious injury.
- The company's stock prices went down in flames after the CEO was arrested.
- The football team went down in flames in the championship, losing by 30 points.
- Her presentation went down in flames when the computer malfunctioned.
- Their friendship went down in flames after a heated argument over a trivial matter.
- The restaurant went down in flames within a year due to poor reviews.
- The musical went down in flames, receiving harsh criticism from all quarters.

- His debut performance went down in flames, diminishing his chances for future roles.
- The software update went down in flames, causing more bugs than it fixed.
- The marketing campaign went down in flames, wasting millions of dollars.
- The peace talks went down in flames after neither side would compromise.
- The new policy went down in flames after widespread public protest.
- The spaceship went down in flames due to a technical malfunction during the launch.
- The university's reputation went down in flames after allegations of misconduct surfaced.
- The athlete's hopes for a gold medal went down in flames after he was disqualified.