

Take a rain check

Idiom in Sentence

Examples

- "I appreciate the dinner invite, but can I take a rain check? I have a tight deadline this week."
- "He wanted to go fishing this weekend, but the weather wasn't cooperating, so he had to take a rain check."
- "She was excited about the movie night but had to take a rain check due to a family emergency."
- "Thanks for offering to help me move. I'll take a rain check for now, as my plans have changed."
- "I would love to join your book club's next meeting, but I'll have to take a rain check this time."
- "We were planning to go camping, but with the forest fire warnings, we decided it's best to take a rain check."
- "My son had to take a rain check on his friend's sleepover because he caught a cold."
- "I know I promised to visit this summer, but can I take a rain check? My work schedule is crazy right now."
- "The concert got canceled, so the organizers offered to give everyone a rain check for the next event."
- "Your offer for a weekend getaway sounds enticing, but I'll have to take a rain check until my project is complete."

- "My daughter took a rain check on her piano lesson because she has a school recital to prepare for."
- "They wanted to celebrate their anniversary at a fancy restaurant, but had to take a rain check when they couldn't get a reservation."
- "I was looking forward to our golf game, but let's take a rain check due to this storm."
- "Your cooking class sounds fantastic! Can I take a rain check, though? I have another commitment that day."
- "I'll take a rain check on that hiking trip; my allergies are acting up this season."
- "Thanks for the invitation to your art show, but I'll have to take a rain check; my sister's wedding is the same day."
- "Your game night sounds like a lot of fun. Unfortunately, I'll have to take a rain check this time."
- "We were going to have a beach day, but the surf advisory made us take a rain check."
- "I'd love to go shopping with you, but can I take a rain check? I have to prepare for an important meeting."
- "The city tour sounds amazing, but I'll take a rain check because I need to focus on my exams right now."