
Unhappy Funny Resignation Letter Example

Dear [Manager's Name],

In the immortal words of the Spice Girls, "Tell me what you want, what you really, really want." Well, what I want is out! Yes, our shared workplace escapades have been a roller-coaster of emotions—mostly downhill and sudden drops. But as every theme park enthusiast knows, once the ride stops being fun, it's time to exit.

Between the printer that has a vendetta against me and the cafeteria's mystery meat, my daily routine has become an episode of a sitcom—just without the laugh track. So, I've decided to search for a new season elsewhere.

Cheerily waving goodbye (and perhaps a little dance),

[Your Name]
