

The Brave Knight

In days of old, when dragons roamed the land,
There lived a knight, so gallant and so grand.
With armor bright and sword held high,
He rode through forests dark and mountains high.

His quest, to save a maiden fair and kind,
Who'd been captured by a dragon, fierce and blind.
Through perilous paths and storms he fought,
With courage in his heart and love in thought.

At last, he reached the dragon's lair,
A cave so dark, yet he did not despair.
With a mighty roar, the dragon came,
But the knight stood firm, his heart aflame.

They battled fierce, the knight and beast,
Till at last, the dragon's strength had ceased.
