2010 SCORING GUIDELINES (Form B)

Question 3

The score should reflect a judgment of the essay's quality as a whole. Remember that students had only 40 minutes to read and write; the essay, therefore, is not a finished product and should not be judged by standards appropriate for an out-of-class assignment. Evaluate the essay as a draft, making certain to reward students for what they do well.

All essays, even those scored 8 or 9, may contain occasional lapses in analysis, prose style or mechanics. Such features should enter into the holistic evaluation of an essay's overall quality. In no case may an essay with many distracting errors in grammar and mechanics be scored higher than a 2.

- 9 Essays earning a score of 9 meet the criteria for a score of 8 and, in addition, are especially sophisticated in their argument, thorough in their development or particularly impressive in their control of language.

8 Effective

Essays earning a score of 8 effectively develop a position on the establishment of an annual Buy Nothing Day. The evidence and explanations used are appropriate and convincing. The prose demonstrates a consistent ability to control a wide range of the elements of effective writing but is not necessarily flawless.

- 7 Essays earning a score of 7 meet the criteria for a score of 6 but provide a more complete explanation, more thorough development or a more mature prose style.

6 Adequate

Essays earning a score of 6 adequately develop a position on the establishment of an annual Buy Nothing Day. The evidence and explanations used are appropriate and sufficient. The writing may contain lapses in diction or syntax, but generally the prose is clear.

- 5 Essays earning a score of 5 develop a position on the establishment of an annual Buy Nothing Day. The evidence or explanations used may be uneven, inconsistent or limited. The writing may contain lapses in diction or syntax, but it usually conveys the student's ideas.

4 Inadequate

Essays earning a score of 4 inadequately develop a position on the establishment of an annual Buy Nothing Day. The evidence or explanations used may be inappropriate, insufficient or less convincing. The prose generally conveys the student's ideas but may be less consistent in controlling the elements of effective writing.

- 3 Essays earning a score of 3 meet the criteria for a score of 4 but demonstrate less success in developing a position on the establishment of an annual Buy Nothing Day. The essays may show less maturity in control of writing.

2 Little Success

Essays earning a score of 2 demonstrate little success in developing a position on the establishment of an annual Buy Nothing Day. These essays may misunderstand the prompt or substitute a simpler task by responding to the prompt tangentially with unrelated, inaccurate or inappropriate explanation. The prose often demonstrates consistent weaknesses in writing, such as grammatical problems, a lack of development or organization, or a lack of control.

- 1 Essays earning a score of 1 meet the criteria for a score of 2 but are undeveloped, especially simplistic in their explanation and argument or weak in their control of language.
- 0 Indicates an on-topic response that receives no credit, such as one that merely repeats the prompt.
- Indicates a blank response or one that is completely off topic.

In a world where ~~consumerism~~ consumerism and consumption reign supreme, it is important for us to, from time to time, take a step back and see how the never-ending consumerist lifestyle influences our society. The "Buy Nothing Day" can be such a time, where we can reflect on our society's addiction to buying. However, we cannot simply institute a national Buy Nothing Day without careful consideration.

While it is true that a Buy Nothing Day should influence our thinking about consumerism, we cannot guarantee that it will. First, it is unlikely that people would be forced from not buying, and many, especially those who are the most afflicted by consumerism, will continue to do so nevertheless. In order to have an effective Buy Nothing Day, we must make these people understand what the message is and help them see how consumerism affects them.

There is also an argument that even if we refrain from buying, we will inevitably consume. Without buying things on that specific day, we are still capable of shamelessly driving to work instead of taking public transportation, we can still pass up water for an ice cold soft drink.

We cannot assume that a Buy Nothing Day will, in any significant way, affect our pattern of overconsumption.

Finally, Adbusters states that a Buy Nothing Day will "expose the environmental and ethical consequences of overconsumption." While this might be the goal, it is unclear how this end is brought about. Simply encouraging people not to buy any goods will not succeed in this exposure, but, at the most, will result in personal reflection. In order to truly "expose the... consequences" we would have to ~~inform~~ inform the public of the facts of consumerism and consumption in respect to the environment and other areas of interest. We would have to show the public the effects and not assume that refusing to buy anything for one day will make them understand the global effects of a consumerist society.

"Money! Money! Money!" "I MUST have this and that, it is NOT enough!" when most people hear the word "Money", they think of the the newest and quickest way to spend there money, not save it. ~~By~~ Buy Nothing Day was organized in Canada to make people aware of excessive consumerism. Though the idea ~~wo~~ is great, ~~a~~ I believe it would not help much; it would just double the money the next day that ~~to~~ could not be allowed to be used the day before. 2010 SCORING COMMENTARY (Form B)

Question 3

Sample: 3A

Score: 8

This essay effectively develops a position on the establishment of an annual Buy Nothing Day, beginning with a clear and specific statement of intent in the first paragraph: “It is a powerful and highly recommended holiday that not only conserves an abundant amount of resources, but also preaches a healthier, more sustainable lifestyle.” The two following paragraphs focus first on evidence concerning the global effects of “[o]ur consumerist society” and next on “an ethical understanding of the consumerist lifestyle.” The explanations are appropriate and convincing. For example, in the second paragraph the response explains that “the US consumes above many times more on an average day than the residents in a third-world country consume in a lifetime,” and the next paragraph states: “We teach children many moral principles, but what we often neglect is the ethics of consumption.” Concluding with the importance of the benefits of establishing such a day — “the tangible amount of energy and resources saved” and “the healthy lifestyle that it promotes” — the essay convincingly argues for the establishment of a Buy Nothing Day. Although the essay is not flawless, the examples are thorough, well developed and well organized, and the prose demonstrates a consistent ability to control all elements of effective writing.

Score: 6

This response adequately develops a position on the establishment of an annual Buy Nothing Day. The student’s intent is presented in the first paragraph: “we cannot simply institute a national Buy Nothing Day without careful consideration.” However, the second paragraph, quite generally focused on “our thinking,” is not as strong as the remainder of the essay but does lead to the continuing development of the essay. The third paragraph focuses on inescapable aspects of a Buy Nothing Day: “even if we refrain from buying, we will inevitably consume.” The fourth paragraph concentrates on the necessity of educating the public: “In order to truly ‘expose the . . . consequences’ we would have to inform the public of the facts of consumerism.” The conclusion emphasizes the importance of public understanding of the benefits: “focus heavily on how to get the message to everyone.” The evidence and explanations are appropriate and sufficient, and the prose is clear.

Score: 4

This essay inadequately develops a position on the establishment of an annual Buy Nothing Day. The response does offer a position (“Buy Nothing Day would not be happily promoted in the United States”), but the evidence presented in support of this position is less convincing: “Like Christmas and Thanksgiving, the days before becoming extremely crazy — more accidents!” and “Buy Nothing Day may have been successful in Canada because of its European environment [sic] which the U.S. does not possess in great amounts due to their individualistic characteristic.” The prose generally conveys the student’s ideas but is less consistent in controlling the elements of effective writing.
